No Reason Is Seen For Decline In Business
During Next Year

(Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Present business, prosperity will continue well into 1926 in the opinion of leading bankers and industrial leaders.

Forecasts for the new year prepared by these executives regard fundamental business conditions as sound, with stress on the Administration's business policies, and are hopeful regarding the European outlook.

"The business of the manufacturers of the iron and steel industry of the United States during the year 1925 on the whole may be considered so far as the volume is concerned," said Chairman E. H. Gary of the United States Steel Corporation. "For a large portion of the year the selling prices were lower than they ought to have been, and many manufacturers operated without much profit."

"The wise and conservative statements of the president from time to time have been an important factor of encouragement to the general business fraternity."

"The apparent change in attitude of many of the national legislators, particularly with reference to economy in administration and more especially taxation, and the decisions of the Supreme Court concerning business, showing a disposition to assist legitimate business progress, have created a feeling of confidence on the part of investors."

"At present the demand for iron and steel products is large and growing in strength. Selling prices are improving somewhat and there is reason to expect they soon will yield to most manufacturers considerable profit. The prospects of this industry for the year 1926 now seem to be very good. Unless some unforeseen circumstances arise to prevent, the general business situation in the United States during the coming year should be satisfactory."

"The petroleum industry has been in a very unsatisfactory condition for more than four years," said Henry L. Doherty, one of the largest independent producers in the country. "Prices have frequently been highly demoralized and none of the former recoveries of prices have carried any assurance to any thoughtful man that they were certain to be permanent."

"The outlook at present is more as usual than at any previous time in the period. Our principal troubles have come from the over-production of domestic crude. Production of crude has remained practically stationary for three years. Production in 1924 showed a slight reduction as against 1923 and 1925 will show only a slight increase over 1923."

"During this period our markets for higher priced products, principally gasoline, have grown immensely, and probably beyond everybody's expectations. Gasoline consumption is now growing much faster than the growth in registered automobiles due principally to the growing percentage of busses and trucks. The adoption of oil for house heating is now literally sweeping the country. No accurate figures are yet available on the consumption of oil for house heating, but this new market possibly has been increasing more rapidly on a percentage basis than our consumption of gasoline for automobiles has done."

"The petroleum industry by nature, and by government activities is probably more competitive than any other industry."

Taught Gospel of the Shears

To the flappers of the Bolivian jungles, Mrs. Oscar de Nina Mayer, former Cornell medical student, brought the boyish bob. When the natives saw her, on an engineering trip with her husband, they insisted she fashion their hair according to her style. When she snipped the tresses of a few, the style was heeded by most of the women of the wilds.

WAGE CONFERENCE

Spokesmen For Groups
Maintain Silence On The Outlook

(Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Representatives of anthracite operators and miners were quartered in separate hotels here today, preparing programs for a joint meeting tomorrow when another effort will be made to reach a settlement of the controversy which has stopped the output of hard coal since September 1.

While spokesmen for both groups maintain silence as to the basis for the discussion, experienced observers professed optimism as to the outcome.

Chief among these was William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who predicted the strike would be ended in ten days.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 28.—Governor Pinchot, in a statement today, expressed gratification at the resumption of negotiations between the anthracite operators and miners and declared the negotiations should produce a settlement not only just to the operators and miners, but one which will give the public coal without an increasing price.

Fire Threatens
Miami's Shipping

(Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 28.—Fire of unknown cause, starting in tar on the Belched asphalt wharf off Miami bay front at noon, threatened adjoining harbor craft loaded with gasoline and building materials. Nearby oil cars also are threatened.

A general fire alarm has brought all available fire fighting apparatus to the water front.

ROBBERY LOSS IS REPORTED TODAY

Exact Date Thieves
Entered Store Is Not Known

Reported loss of merchandise from the establishment formerly operated by A. A. Hardage, Second avenue was made to the police today and officers went to work immediately on the case. It was stated that there were no direct clues established, leading to the arrest of any suspects.

It is believed that the thieves obtained a large quantity of merchandise after making an entrance through the rear partition and smashing a toilet partition and making their way into the front of the business house. The exact date of the robbery was not given, the store not having been entered since last Thursday. Inventory of the stock was being taken today that an estimate of the loss might be learned.

That connection of the Hardage robbery and the robberies of the Nebrig Furniture company and the Wiley Electric Station was not thought to be unlikely, in view of the fact that the time of the occurrence is not definitely known.

A Substantial Amount
Will Be Expended
Locally

Albany-Decatur will get a full share of the $4,000,000 development planned for this state by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company for the year 1926, it was made known today by J. B. Cassels, district manager of the company, in response to questioning regarding the future plans of his company. Mr. Cassels declined to make any concrete statement of the contemplated cost of the expansion or what changes are likely to be made in connection with the southward expansion program.

The Southern Bell company is planning to spend approximately $33,000,000 in the southland, according to advices made public on Sunday, $4,000,000 of the expansion to be made in the state of Alabama.

The company, Mr. Cassels declared, is not ready to make any definite announcement of the program for these cities, but a substantial amount is likely to be spent in the near future as Albany-Decatur is among the cities included in the big project.

Announcement that the Southern Bell intends expanding local facilities is the first announcement of its kind for the coming year and is received by local people with much interest as well as further establishing a faith in these communities as future cities of the Valley section.

Acting Postmaster To Assume Duties On January 1

L. R. Day, popular Louisville and Nashville employee, recently appointed as acting postmaster of Albany will assume his new duties on January 1, according to present plans.

Mr. Day will succeed L. E. Huie, who resigned recently, asking that his resignation be made effective as of December 15. Mr. Huie's term of office would have expired in February and the postal department already has announced examinations for appointment for the full term.

ANY NUMBER of concerns would handle a Panama contract. Standard Oil, in California, absorbs Pacific oil, the latter casually announces distribution of one hundred millions or so of securities to stock holders. And the whole thing amounts to "only five hun-

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 28.—Death cut a wide swath over Dixie during the Christmas holidays. Three score and ten persons in the South met their doom through traffic accidents, involving automobiles, motorcycles and trolleys. In addition 377 persons were hurt by the same means. These figures are revealed in a survey made today by the Associated Press for the week, which closed last night. The figures are from ten states.

Florida led the South with 13 deaths, while Virginia and Georgia trailed closely behind with twelve each. Tennessee and Mississippi were the lowest with three each. Georgia led in the number of injuries, her figures being 66. North Carolina and Florida reported 61 and 60 injuries respectively. At the foot of this column was Alabama with nine injured.

There were no outstanding accidents during the week, in which heavy toll of life was taken.

General Butler To Remain In Marines

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Brigadier General Smedley Butler today withdrew his resignation from the marine corps.

Although the leave under which he has been serving as director of public safety of Philadelphia would not expire until December 31, General Butler immediately reported for duty. He will return to Philadelphia for a few days to arrange his private affairs and then come back to Washington.

Late in January he will go to San Diego to take command of the marine base there.

Temperature At Noon
Rising, Mrs. Irons
Announces

With the thermometer standing barely above the zero mark for the Sunday night and early Monday morning hours, Albany-Decatur suffered the coldest wave of the year for the past twenty-four hour stretch.

The thermometer dropped to six above zero during the night, according to official readings given out by Mrs. A. H. Irons, observer. The mercury registered at 15 today, falling ten degrees below the record for Sunday.

At the noon hour it was learned that the temperature was rising only slightly, registering 19 degrees above zero, four degrees in difference from the early morning temperature.

Outside weather reports offered no relief to Albany-Decatur and vicinity, predictions pointing that the weather is expected to become severe with the fall of night. The wave however is expected to be broken by Tuesday.

River reports for the day showed the stream to be standing at 5.2, falling. Ice was in evidence on many of the principal streets of the cities Sunday and today and the telephone lines were kept busy until the noon hour in pleas for plumbers to start thawing processes for frozen pipes. The night is believed to have been the most severe in several years.

Reports about the streets told of marks reaching well below zero, according to various porch thermometers, the report by the government observer, however, discounts any figures by local residents.

CAR DAMAGED IN
CRASH WITH TRAIN

Occupants Scared But
No One Is Hurt
Early Today

A Nash automobile driven by Miss Wima Ross collided with Louisville and Nashville train No. 6 at the railway crossing on Second street, near the plant of the Decatur Cornice & Roofing company this morning near 11:30 o'clock. Miss Ross and Mrs. C. D. Trotman of Madison and two children occupants of the car were all unhurt. The car, it is understood was practically demolished.

From details of the accident it is said that Miss Ross was driving east when the collision occurred, the train proceeding toward the Albany station after emerging from the local railway shops. It is not known whether the brakes on her car refused to work or whether Miss Ross did not see the train in time to stop. It was stated at the local station that the car was damaged on the right front side. None of the occupants suffered injury, it is said, though badly shaken.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—A reaction from the biting cold weather which has been prevalent over almost the United States is predicted for tomorrow by the weather bureau. During Tuesday somewhat higher temperatures are expected in the Ohio valley, Tennessee, the South Atlantic and east gulf states and nearly all sections east of the Mississippi river, except possibly New England.

A higher temperature for that section, however, is forecast for Wednesday.

Today's weather report disclosed temperature below freezing as far south as northern Mexico and northern Florida. Both Brownsville, Texas and Jacksonville, Fla., reported a minimum of 24 degrees and Mobile and Pensacola 23 degrees.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 28.—A decidedly unfriendly blast from the frozen north prevailed today in the usually balmy and pleasant Dixie. The entire South was affected by the chilling breezes, even to sunny Florida, which boasts a summer-like temperature the year round.

The western portion of the South bore the brunt of the cold wave, but the temperature in the eastern portion was steadily dropping, indicating that it too would feel winter's emphatic pinch before another day was done, unless Old Sol tore loose with some of his stuff.

Zero weather, and even sub-zero temperatures were felt in some places, principally those toward the border line and in the mountains.

Louisville, Ky., the northern outpost of Dixie, reported six below while Bristol, Va., and Asheville, N. C., both saw the zero mark nearby. Bristol and Asheville rang the bell at zero.

Birmingham reported the coldest December weather in 24 years.

Comparatively little suffering was reported from any portion of the south, although such temperatures are a rarity and found the section, as a whole, still prepared for it. Three deaths in Kentucky from the cold were reported.

The high temperatures recorded at one o'clock this morning were in Florida, where Jacksonville registered 35 degrees and Miami, at the tip end of the peninsula, reported 54 degrees.

The coldest was at Louisville, Ky., with six below.

New Orleans registered 30 degrees and Atlanta 10 at the same hour.

Some of the unofficial temperatures reported at one o'clock this morning follow:

Birmingham five; Chattanooga eight; Louisville six below; Mobile 24; Nashville four; Atlanta ten; Bristol zero; Columbia, S. C., 46; Augusta, Ga., 22; Jacksonville 35; Miami 54; Asheville zero; Raleigh 14.

FIRST FORD PLANES TAKE OFF MONDAY

Very Significant Event Says Manufacturer Watching Fliers

(Associated Press)

DETROIT, Dec. 28—The first four airplanes, made by the Stout all-metal division of the Ford Motor company, and sold for strictly commercial use, took off from the Ford airport at Dearborne this morning for Miami, Fla.

The planes are to be put in operation between Miami, and Tampa, Fla., by the Florida Airways Corporation. Henry and Edsel Ford, William B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford company and William P. Stout, designer of the plane, and director of airplane manufacture for the company, witnessed the take-off.

"It is a very significant occasion," Henry Ford said. "The establishment of this air line is an important step forward for American aviation."

The four all-metal planes were accompanied by a Curtiss lark, carrying Major W. A. Robertson, director of operations for the Florida corporation. Stops are to be made at Dayton, O., Nashville, Tenn., Montgomery, Ala., and Tallahassee, Fla.

Mr. Mayo announced that planes now are under construction for the Western Air Express, to operate between Salt Lake City and Los Angeles and the national air transport operating from Chicago to Dallas, Texas.

other industry. When we get ready to develop our markets by co-operative effort we will find no problem; we cannot master, and the business will prove safe, stable and profitable. We may again have slumps until we get things functioning on a co-operative basis but our slumps should be temporary and when we get on a thoroughly co-operative basis, slumps will be a thing of the past.

"There are many reasons to believe that the next year will see a continuance of the steady growth and development of the electric industry," declared Sidney Z. Mitchell, president of the Electric Bond and Share Co. "The year just ended has established new records in the amount of electricity generated and used in the United States; in the amount of capital invested and in the diversity of the uses to which electric power maybe put."

Extension of the country's generating plants has kept pace with the increase in the demand for electricity, so that, while consumption has been increasing, the facilities for meeting this increase have been provided.

"Industry is coming more and more to depend upon central stations for power, thousands of new residences have been wired for electricity and the advent of the electric refrigerator and numerous other domestic conveniences has swelled the aggregate demand upon the central stations. During 1925, the United States generated 12 per cent. more electricity than during 1924."

"Most important of all, the public has become convinced of the stability of electric securities under the present state regulation, and this public confidence has been reflected in the ability of the industry to secure the capital needed for proper development of the country's power facilities."

"In view of all these facts, there is no legitimate reason why the progress of the country's electrical development should not continue during the coming year."

"While the electric company is less susceptible than almost any other enterprise to sudden changes in the general economic situation there is of course, a relationship between its own prosperity and the prosperity of the nation. With the factories of the country going at full blast, there is more need for power than during periods of depression."

"In view of the optimistic tenor of present expressions from the White House and the Department of Commerce, it is reasonable to assume that the whole tone of the nation's business will be good during 1926. This fact supplies an additional basis for my belief that the new year will be a prosperous one for the electric industry."

"There is ample reason to expect that the first half of 1926 will be a period of general prosperity in which the automobile business should share," asserted Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., President of the General Motors Corporation. "The latter part of 1926 is still too far away for one to judge with much assurance what it may hold in store."

"The momentum of business recovery since last summer will tend to keep business active during, at least, the first part of 1926. Conditions are in a healthy balance at present. Employment is large, prices are relatively stable, transportation facilities are ample and efficiently operated.

"Production and inventories generally are well controlled, and conditions sound. In the light of a present situation the expectation of active spring and early summer business seems to be justified."

"Automobile buying, during last few months has been particularly good, partly as a result of the greater values offered by the new model and lower closed car prices; partly as a result of better agricultural purchasing power, and partly as a result of general increased prosperity."

"I expect the summer demand for automobiles to continue large with general business remains active, volume of retail automobile sales the first half of 1926 is expected exceed that of the first half of 1925 by a fair margin."

12 Years Ago TODAY

From the Daily of December 28, 1913

December 28 falling on Sunday, there was no issue of The Daily of that date.

The annual period for scratching has commenced, wool prices will rise, all on account of the weather, it's an ill wind.

While discussing the coming of the New Year don't forget the smiling faces of bill collectors to be in evidence on the first.

All work and no play makes a phenomenon, declares the Richmond News Leader. Evidently the Leader writer is not of the opinion that genius is worth a great deal to the United States.

Promise to start work on the Moulton-Decatur highway is a good indication that the year 1926 is not going to be so slow. With the completion of the project and the beginning of building on the Decatur-Courtland road, the year will have been more than a milestone.

We are getting nearer and nearer to local and state politics. As soon as things begin to thaw we'll be bothered with the open season for gab. The politicians will promise everything on the face of the globe and end up with having sojourned for a few years at the capital at the expense of the people.

Maybe if all goes well, we will be greeted with some action on Muscle Shoals by the latter part of 1930. One indication of action on the Shoals question is seen in the talk of New York papers of possibilities of the Valley section, this may wake up Wall street and in such event the Washington lads will give a thought to the leading question of the day.

A CHANCE FOR CLUBS TO GO TO WORK IN EARNEST

A club is always looking for a chance to do some good work for the community in which it happens to be located and we point to the coming year as an object of offering constructive work to the various civic organizations of these cities. The Kiwanis, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and others need have no fear that they will be without work during the coming year, if the membership will halt temporarily and take stock before the old year breathes its last. The year 1926 offers the greatest industrial expansion that the southland has ever seen, and the amount of that industrial movement that comes to this section will in some means be directly traced to the spirit and the fight to be found in these clubs. Members can find much to do if they will but look. These cities have enjoyed a good year in 1925, much has been accomplished, but the coming year has much more to offer than had the past year. The Florida realty boom seems to be settling into a period of steady growth, so the land dealers are casting their eyes to North Alabama. There is plenty of work in bringing these boosters into this section, showing them the advantages. Industries are seeking southern sites. There may be some of the industrialists who do not know of the valuable location here on the banks of the Tennessee river, the junction point of the Southern and the Louisville & Nashville railroads. These clubs can do a service for the communities if they will but keep the outside informed periodically of the vast value here. It will be found that results are obtained.

SANTA CLAUS WINS

During the last three years the Soviet authorities in Russia have been waging unremitting war on the celebration of Christmas as a holiday. It was in line with their general determination to stamp out Christian religion and substitute some peculiar atheistic creed of their own. It is easy to understand why the Christian religion's ideals did not fit in with their plans of procedure. It will be recalled that the Soviet has indulged in almost every conceivable form of blasphemous ridicule in order to discredit Christmas in the eyes of the working classes and peasants, but it now appears that they have lost their unholy fight.

A recent decree of the Soviet sets aside Dec. 25 and 26 as holidays, although it carefully avoids any mention of Christmas. For the past few years it has offered bonuses to those laborers who reported to work on Christmas, and has fined those who did not, but all that has been in vain. The workers were so few and efforts to enforce their presence caused such serious consequences that the Soviet has finally seen the folly of continuing to issue orders which were not obeyed.

While this decision of the authorities in Russia means that older people will be allowed to celebrate Christmas as they choose, a tear remains to be shed for the thousands of children who are inmates of Soviet orphanages. The only Christmas presents these pitiful little youngsters will receive will be books and pamphlets making fun of the Christian religion. They will also be forced to attend atheistic lectures, delivered on Christmas day. Santa Claus has won in part, but he must be grieved that his victory could not have extended to the very folks who would have rejoiced most at it.

At any rate, the confession of the Soviet that it is unable to persuade or drive the masses of the Russian people away from the Christian holiday of Christmas is one of the few encouraging, heartening signs observed lately in that sector. Perhaps it means that the fire of piety burns yet strong enough to be fanned some day into a flame worthy of the name. It is to be hoped so. It would be a terrible prospect, indeed, if the Soviet leaders were able to impregnate a whole people with their own barbarous notions and atheistic beliefs.—Nashville Banner.

BEAUTIFY THE CITIES IN THE COMING MONTHS

A man is judged by the clothes he wears, a woman is criticized for her style or her lack of style, a city comes into a share of the same criticism if effort is not made to beautify streets, parks, walks and alleyways. The time for planting trees is here now, it's time that thought be given to the matter of the cities' dress. Think of the impression to be made on the outside; think of your own pride in your city, the pride you may feel when you know that the premises around your home are sanitary and that the trees are trimmed, the hedges or the lawn is clipped. Start the plan now, get into the work in earnest, then there will be no need for an annual "Clean-up, Paint-up" week. Keep your cities inviting to the outsider at all times. Our water and milk supplies are as good as can be found anywhere, the outsider may not be acquainted with such fact, yet he knows that the streets are dirty or clean, he can tell if parkways are in good shape, he forms his impression as soon as he steps off the train, let's see if we cannot give him the correct impression of these cities, make him wish he lived here, make him want to come into communities that are growing, communities taking pride in their appearance. The appearance of the city reflects its progress, it remains for the reflection in the mirror to be noticeable in an overgrowth of weeds, or a clean shaven face. People notice such things in a city just as much as you a man in an unpressed suit. A clean city is its own advertisement of progress in spirit and in fact.

A LOGICAL CONCLUSION TO A QUESTION BEFORE A GREAT MANY

The logical conclusion to the question of why America refuses to read good literature is ably discussed in an article in the Anniston Star; the conclusion being drawn that good books are not the best sellers because the people of America do not want good literature. Their tastes run to the rich, rare, and racy type that clutter the table of every news stand. It is discouraging to note what the following papers have to say of the habit for poor reading in the nation:

Said Thomas Fuller, writing some three hundred years ago, "Learning hath gained most by those books by which printers have lost." Maybe that is equally true today, and the question of why is raised in the discussion of Winston Churchill's recent attack on high prices charged by publishers for good books.

"Winston Churchill, New Hampshire author and politician, dropped a high explosive on the book publishing industry the other day," says the Huntington Advertiser, "when he explained that he was no longer writing the country's best sellers because the publishers charged so much for the books that the public couldn't afford to read." To this the publishers answer, continues the Advertiser, "that the price of books has not risen in proportion to most necessities and practically all luxuries."

Though as yet Mr. Churchill "stands alone among authors in his crusade against high-priced books," as the Asheville Times sees it, his statement "seems to be the beginning of a long-needed reform; that other countries have always been known for the reasonableness of the prices put on the best literature."

Such a statement as that made by Churchill might be discounted if it came from an unsuccessful and disgruntled writer, but the Dallas Journal recalls that "Churchill was at the height of success when he voluntarily stopped his output. He hasn't given us a new novel in the last ten years. He doesn't know that he will ever give us a new one. But he has been writing all along, for his own amusement, and he hasn't offered anything to the publishers." The Journal finds that the kernel of the complaint is the fact "that people are missing the home association with good books, because they can't afford to own them at prevailing prices."

"The old yearning which elderly people can remember for book-ownership was wholesome; its disappearance is regrettable," observes the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, which has its own explanation of the situation: "Probably modern education, as the masses are affected by it, with its tendency toward imparting a smattering of many subjects with no grasp of any one of them, discourages close and careful reading." Along similar lines is the comment of the Utica Observer-Dispatch, which says: "Winston Churchill, the novelist, thinks the high cost of books in this country militates against good taste in reading, the ownership of home libraries, once a proud possession, and the finer writings of great novelists." Continuing, this paper says: "Justifying Mr. Churchill's criticism are these facts: The American people buy a hundred million volumes a year on the average. That means less than one book per year per inhabitant, surely at consumption of books in proportion to our standard of literacy. The popularity of the loan library is another argument in favor of Mr. Churchill's contention that books cost too much. The immense output of paper-backed magazines containing fiction, is a third."

The Buffalo Evening News thinks the trouble does not lie in the price list. Its exposition of the subject is as follows: "Americans do not refrain from buying books because of high prices. Book buying is a habit that needs cultivation, especially in a land having newspapers and popular magazines containing fiction, essays, accounts of exploration and travel, and popular science. The way to increase the sale of books," contends the News, "is to multiply attractive book stores, utilize intelligent reviews with method and understanding, and systematically bring the right sorts of books to the attention of the right sorts of potential buyers."

Agreeing that "our good books continue to accumulate dust on the booksellers' shelves," the Tampa Times asks: "Suppose that the best books, the works of the greatest minds from Aristotle to Whitman, were selling for 25 cents each. Would the sales rise appreciably?" Answering its own question, in the laconic expression, "They would not," the Times continues: "Because these books would have to compete with the corner moving picture show, the Sunday supplement, the 'confession' magazine and the musical comedy. And, as in the past, these competitors would get 95 per cent of the trade. You don't have to think, you know, when you see a movie, read a lurid magazine or drop in at a musical comedy."

duce a brand of "whiskey" that would have prevented the evolution discussion, had that whiskey appeared earlier, it would have killed off all the higher apes before they had a chance to become men.

Lye, poison ivy and tobacco juice are included in this whiskey, cheaper than corn whiskey, more quickly made, with a real bite.

If your "genuine pre-war" stuff turns out to be Tennessee's latest, you will know it. It scorches the mucus membrane from the mouth causing the tongue to swell and protrude.

NEW Siberian gold fields, to which Russians only are permitted, are enormously rich, and may shift the gold balance from this proud nation to Bolshevik Russia. Five hundred million dollars worth of gold, it is expected, will soon be added to Russia's supply.

WHAT effect will it have on haughty Uncle Sam, if Russia equals him as a gold owner? It would be hard for our best minds to resist the persuasive powers of so much gold.

And what effect will the new yellow treasure have on Russia and her rulers? Will they become more conservative as they become rich, and join the world chorus of governing high finance? Probably.

JOSEPH PULITZER used to say often, "Brisbane, if you ever get any money, which you never will, you will find that your opinions will change."

THE Chicago News sold for four teen millions, not too dear for a profitable, established newspaper. But don't buy stock in any new newspaper enterprise, if you do you will probably learn of something to your disadvantage.

THE new owners of the Daily News announce conspicuously that Samuel Insull has no interest in the paper, does not and will not own any stock.

Insull runs the right, power, etc., of Chicago, and the News owners evidently wish it known that he has nothing to do with their paper.

THEY may be wrong about that.

There is only one kind of brains, and Insull has plenty of the one kind. If he had a newspaper, and would take his mind off other things, he would fight for his readers, not influenced by other "Insulls."

He would surely make more of a success than any committee. A committee cannot run a newspaper, or nurse a baby.

A RICH American girl thought she wanted a count, married him, had a baby? Found she did not want him.

Count Salm, proud father, wants that baby, the small child plays with too many toys while detectives watch, that it may not be carried away by the loving father.

MANY FATHERS being primitive barbarians will say "that father has rights." What would they say, if a hen laid an egg, and they saw the rooster walking off with it?

They would say "hold on, you didn't lay that egg."

HOW TO PROLONG YOUR DOCTOR'S CAREER

A Patient Should Be More Considerate of His Own Physician's Health, Thus Adding to the Latter's Life Span and Usefulness.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

ONE of my readers sent in this newspaper clipping: "Doctors are not considered good insurance risks by the big insurance companies—mostly because many of them neglect to observe the advice they give to their patients."

Many of the most eminent and efficient physicians die in their fifth and sixth decades, according to Dr. J. A. Patton, of the Prudential Insurance Company. Their strained heart muscles fail prematurely when they neglect to take the rest and exercise they prescribe for their patients.

I suppose this is in line with the old saying about shoemaker's children. But there is a lot of truth in it and it is natural to ask why it is.

How many persons of your acquaintance would you call away from his meal, out of his bed or both, out of church or the theatre, away from a wedding or a funeral? How many would you ask to pay you a little visit in the darkest night, through the sleet and snow, regardless of driving rain or the state of the roads? How many men can you approach on Sundays, holidays and birthdays? How many men can you coax away from golf, tennis, bridge, hunting, fishing, sailing, polo, baseball and college class reunions?

You couldn't get the lawyer, the carpenter, the plumber, the grocer, the real estate man or your husband to respond to each and every call I have enumerated. The only man in the world who fits into this picture is your friend, the doctor.

Can't you think of a dozen or a hundred times when you called him in a hurry, when a few hours would have made no difference? Poor man! He always comes, doesn't he?

And you are not the only person who calls him and expects immediate response. Every one of the scores of families in his care expects the same attention.

No wonder the doctor is a poor risk for the insurance company. He never has time for rest and exercise such as he prescribes for you. You won't permit it!

I plead for the doctor. He is your friend in time of trouble. Be considerate of him and don't abuse his health. Next time he is needed wait till daylight at least and then leave word that if he can call during the forenoon you will be happy. My! the doctor will think that the world has come to an end!

Prepare a list of your symptoms. Think over the possible causes of your illness. Don't give the doctor a crossword puzzle to solve—do all you can to help him form a just verdict in your case.

You can help the doctor to live long and to be a better insurance risk. Most doctors I have known are worth saving!

Kortrecht of Memphis, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Bloodworth and W. W. Rahm.

MISS MURPHY ENTERTAINS

Miss Annis Gus Murphy was hostess at a very lovely party on Saturday night, December 26th at Renton, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Cortner. This spacious home was made more beautiful with Christmas decorations and evergreens, used in profusion on the stairways, over the doors and on the mantles. Baskets of exquisite roses were also in evidence.

The Hartelle orchestra furnished music for dancing, the feature of the evening.

At midnight an elaborate hot luncheon was served in two courses about forty were included in Mrs. Murphy's guest list.

FRICKE-SCHNEIDER

A wedding of interest to their many friends was that of Miss Emily Schneider and Mr. William Fricke of Hartselle, Ala., which was solemnized on Sunday at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Anna J. Schneider in Decatur, Ala., with only the immediate families present.

For the occasion the living room was simply but beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums, narcissus and ferns.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Miss Katherine Schneider, the bride entered with her maid, Miss Alana Fricke and was met at the improvised altar of palms and ferns by the groom and his best man, Mr. Ernest Mittweide of Hartselle, Ala.

The ceremony was said by Rev. R. W. Hahn of St. Paul's Lutheran church.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Fricke left for a short southern trip, and on their return will be at home in Hartselle, Ala.

MR. AND MRS. CLOUD

ENTERTAIN

Honoring their guests, Mrs. I. W. Faircloth of Lakeland, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stephens of New Hope, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. Will Cloud entertained Friday at a Christmas dinner. OFFICER WEST SUED IN CIRCUIT COURT

City Patrolman Made Defendant In Action Seeking Damages

J. M. West, Albany patrolman, has been made defendant in a suit for $1,000 damages, filed in circuit court by Tennis Tidwell, attorney for Shy McGar. The case probably will not come up before spring.

The suit follows an alleged altercation between McGar and Officer West at or near the Albany city hall several days ago, during which time McGar is said to have received painful injuries about the head.

Helpful Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

How long should a girl wait before answering a boy's letter? ANXIOUS BLONDE: There is no rule, why, if she is at leisure, she should wait at all, my dear. A letter should be answered as promptly as possible, whether it be from a young man or a young woman.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

When you are at a party with a friend who should suggest going home, he or you?

BRUNETTE: It is the lady's privilege to suggest the time of departure.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens and am going with a young man two years my senior. He objects to my going with other boys, but he very often goes out with some other girl. Please advise me what you think I should do. BROWN EYES: BROWN EYES: Since you are not engaged to this young man, it is your privilege to accept attentions from your other friends. Miss Brown Eyes: Explain this to your friend and tell him that you make no demands on him. Consequently he should not expect you to give up your friends for him. And if he values your friendship he will abide by your decision.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Will you please advise if it is proper for a young man to kiss a girl if they are not engaged?

WHY: No, this is not proper or wise, my dear. No young man really respects a young woman who permits these liberties, regardless of what he may say.

GENERAL PERSHING TO RETURN HOME

Condition of His Health Forces "Black Jack" To Quit Chile

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Because of failing health, General John J. Pershing is expected to return here within the next month from Africa, Chile, where he is representing President Coolidge in the Chilean-Peruvian arbitration over Tacna-Arica. His physician has recommended that he begin the homeward trip not later than January 15 and he may depart from Africa before that date, if proper arrangements can be made. Details of the general's illness are not known here but reports reaching Washington have somewhat alarmed his friends. There has been a marked increase in blood pressure, in addition to complications resulting from infected teeth. He is in the 66th year.

Although Washington officials declined to make any announcements regarding his return, there were evidences his departure from South America would, in no sense, see a diplomatic retreat from an international situation which has become embarrassing. Steps will be taken to continue, so far as possible, the work he has been doing as head of the commission.

Colonel Coolidge Confined To Bed

(Associated Press)

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Dec. 28.—Colonel John C. Coolidge, father of the President, was confined to his bed today because he had lost the use of his right leg, due to faulty circulation.

Dr. Albert C. Cram, of Bridgewater, his personal physician, said his patient's condition was not to be considered serious.

SCHEDULE CHANGED

The bowling schedule has been changed slightly this week. Teams will bowl as follows:

Monday, Humdingers vs. Decoras.
Tuesday, Engineers vs. Railroaders.
Wednesday, Bear Cats vs. Combination.

Thursday, Old Timers vs. Machine Shop.

Friday night, there will be a special elimination contest between the following men who are eligible to try for the cup team to go up against Huntsville: Sorber, Weatherly, Byars, Mann, Stinson, Yarbrough, Deering, W. A. Sims, McCauley and Smith. These men bowled 75 per cent or more of their tournament games. These same men begin their elimination at once by attending and bowling upon their regular match night during this present week, and they will finish next week by continuing their elimination during regular match nights.

High match average, Sorber 174.

It has been announced at Florence that final negotiations have been made with the Louisville and Nashville railroad for the construction of an up-town freight house. Work on securing right of way has already been started, it is said.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

SPORTS

Basketball Harder Hit By Pros Than College Football Will Be

The howl sent up by college football officials that the professional game would ruin the college contests was premature.

Apparently college basketball will suffer more from the inroads of professional football than any other sport. Most of the interest in the professional game centers in the post-season contests, played during a period when the program in the sport arena is exceptionally dull. Professional football is detracting from the early season basketball publicity and almost before the basketball season gets underway, baseball will come into its own. Thus, it seems, basketball will be the principal sufferer from the inroads of professionalism, because basketball is losing the publicity and without publicity no sport can entice the necessary thousands through stadium turnstiles.

A local railway official, more or less with national geography, topography and railroad schedules, believes Alabama will defeat Washington, and he has his own good reasons to substantiate his contention.

He sets forth that Alabama already is in Pasadena, has been there several days and by New Year's Day will have become more or less accustomed to the warmth of the California sun, the springiness of the Pasadena turf and the air currents in Rose Bowl.

Washington, on the other hand, will arrive at Pasadena only a day or two before the game. They will reach California after a long, difficult and tiresome railroad journey and they will come down out of the bitter cold weather of a severe Washington winter, into the balmy spring-time of Southern California.

"It is bound to tell on the Huskies" the railroad official avers, and that's that. Take it or leave it.

Atlanta, by the way, is supporting the Crimson Tide with its dollars. This word comes from the Georgia City, where persons with a tendency to take a chance are laying their wagers on Alabama against Eastern money for Washington.

TIE IN BOWLING

The famous Decoras and Engineers Co., tied for points of two each in bowling at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday night, every man being present to bowl. Manager Arvidson was asked to umpire the game.

Bear Cats trimmed the Machine Shop for three points Friday night. Some mighty fine scores were made by several of the men, as scores below indicate.

Teams bowling tonight will be the Bear Cats vs. the Combination. Scores for last two matches:

CRIMSONS WORKOUT ON WET GRIDIRON

Sunday Holiday For the Alabama Warriors At Pasadena

(Associated Press)
PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 28.—A bit of moisture by way of variety was provided today at Rose Bowl for the first of four strenuous workouts by the gridiron men of the University of Washington here Friday.

There were showers during the night and more predicted for today. Sunday was a day of sight-seeing and beach frolic for the Alabama team before the big game. The wet field will prove a protective advantage for the Alabama players, permitting Coach Wallace Wade to put his men into action under wet conditions, on the field after having had them feel out the field dry and warm weather.

No Cold Spots in Oven

How often do you have to turn your roast or bread around in the oven to make it bake evenly? You know it's lots of worry and no end of guessing.

Anchor Ranges have no "cold spots" in the oven—they bake evenly at all times—and you surely appreciate what an advantage this is.

The Anchor Range is a money and trouble saver—the pride of the thrifty homemaker.

Let us show you why and how an Anchor pays for itself.

THEATRES

"The Gorilla," one of the recent hits of the New York, Boston, Chicago and London stage, is underlined January 5th, where it will be played at the Princess Theater, Tuesday by a special company. The cast includes: Ed Williams, Edwin Forsberg, Ellen Crowe Victor Browne, William Balfour, Tom Burton, Clyde Nelson, Betram Millar, Jack F. Ayres, James Kelo and Bernard Craney.

This play was written by Ralph Spence and staged by Donald Gallaher. It is said to be a "mysterious melodrama," like "The Bat," "The Last Warning" and "The Cat and the Canary." To outline the story, says the press agent, "would be to invite permanent mental derangement." The plot contains a master criminal, known as the "Gorilla," who threatens the tenant of a haunted house. It also contains a playwright in love with the tenant's niece, two detectives, a butler, a locked chest, a dead sailor, the Ku Klux Klan, screams, pistol shots sliding panels, and the inevitable reporter.

The True Cost of Printing

Do you consider printing as merely an expense necessary to the operation of your business? Or do you treat it as a means of building business?

Poor printing is an expense, not only in the money it costs, but in its undesirable reflection on your business.

Good printing costs nothing—it offsets its own cost and makes money for you.

Whether the printing be a direct appeal for business such as a circular or other form of direct advertising, or a statement or other office form, quality counts in the reckoning of its cost.

We look upon printing as something which should absorb its own cost and make a profit for its user. And we produce printing that does.
